

Fund manager's comment:

Earnings season and central banks have dominated the news flow during April, compared with Brexit and trade wars the earlier months. Riksbanken was very dovish and hence the SEK depreciated against major currencies. The macro in the US is not great but it is not bad either. Hence, the feeling that the market expects FED to go to easing bias compared with the current neutral bias seems a bit premature. The equity market is up 20 per cent year to date. The local earnings season has been bifurcated between banks and industrials. Banks in general have pressure on high quality net interest income, which is cumbersome. Industrials deliver in general strong reports. Euro IG spread is now 55bp compared with 94bp at the start of the year. Given that all time tight was around 30bp, but then ECB QE was in full swing. Hence, we do not see any great upside in spread tightening from this stage compared with beginning of the year.

The Nordic new issue market continues to be strong. We participated in inaugural SBB euro hybrid and Infront ASA bond issues. We have increased real-estate exposure, still from a low level, due to more dovish central banks and interest rates staying lower for longer.

Moreover, we sold or decreased exposure in some strong performing bonds, e.g. Selecta, Akelius hybrid, Heimstaden bostad. A negative rating event occurred, where B2 holding bonds were downgraded to single B+ from BB-. No major price action though, but it increases the single B category exposure in the fund.

We are neutral to slightly cautious in our stance right now. We expect a heavy new issue season ahead of us, combined with potential resurfing of Brexit issues and trade talks. June is normally a more difficult month return-wise. However, the current Goldilocks environment with low inflation and low interest rates is strong.

Norron Premium returned 0,9 per cent in April. Largest contributors were Tresu, Nordea At1 and Neptune. No large negative movements. After four strong months, we expect slower performance going forward.
